Gatsometer - Press Release

9th of September 2009

Haarlem, the Netherlands

Ted Janssen takes it easier after 42 years at Gatsometer

Working more than 42 years for Gatsometer, our Technical Director Ted Janssen has decided to take it easier by reducing his working hours with 50% per the 1st of October this year. Per this date he will start a new role within the company and will become Senior Advisor to the Gatsometer Management.

From the early days of the company Ted has significantly contributed to the overall growth of the Gatsometer organization. He was a main force behind the development of many different markets, especially by his active role in homologations all over the world. Under his supervision also many new products were developed, one of them the successful Radar24.

Based on his extensive knowledge and experience in the Traffic Enforcement market, Ted will also in the coming period play an important role within Gatsometer.

Tieneke Breemhaar, New Director Technology of Gatsometer

Per the 1st of October '09 Tieneke Breemhaar will start as Director Technology of Gatsometer. She has extensive experience in different managerial roles in the Telecom/IT business.
